AND STILL NO RACE.

FIFTH FIZZLE FURNISHED FOR YACHTING ENTHUSIASTS.

Fog and falling winds caused falling-off in interest and few of the fleet of excursion boats put out.

Iselin Protests Against the Savage Attacks Made on the Columbia, by the New York Press Yachting World's Points.

Martin Wins Two Events at the Newmarket Meeting—Racing at New York and Hawthorne.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.) NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—A blanket of fog over the course and the utter absence of wind caused the fifth successive fizzle of the Shamrock regatta was made today to sail the first of the Columbia-Shamrock series for the international trophy. The yachts will try again tomorrow.

The repeated failures have had a most discouraging effect on the general public, and there was a great falling-off in the number of excursion boats, as well as the number of their passengers. The heavy fog made navigation not only exceedingly difficult, but very dangerous. The ships of the fleet that did brave the perils of the fog could only crawl out to their destination, keeping double lookouts forward and their fog whistles constantly going to avoid collision.

Down in the lower bay the fog was not quite so thick, and about 10 o'clock a light breeze from the west gave a faint hope that it would send the fog out to sea and furnish good racing conditions later on. So the racing sloops let go of their moorings and were towed out to the starting line. There they got their sails up and drifted about. But the haze did not lift, and the breeze, instead of increasing, died away altogether. When the time came to signal the course, the weather vane at the masthead of the committee boat, which would respond to the breath of a sleeping infant, lay limp and lifeless against the staff. Shortly after 12 o'clock, by mutual consent, the committee boat hoisted the letter "R," meaning the race was off. The sails were lowered and the tenders of the two yachts took them in tow. The fleet sailed alongside and saluted, while the passengers gave the white beauty three rousing cheers and a tiger.

The repeated flukes off Sandy Hook have led to some agitation for a change of the course to Newport, where there is usually a breeze, or to Marblehead, off the Massachusetts coast, where no difficulty would be experienced in getting plenty of wind, but it is hardly likely that any change will be made. The Regatta Committee argues that this sort of weather cannot last any time of the year.

The early morning fog at Sandy Hook Bay gave little promise of a race. The weather was fairly clear for a few minutes, and a light breeze from the west, but up to the northward, toward the Narrows, the fog still hung in the air. The fleet was hoisted early on both yachts, and soon after 9 o'clock they cast off their moorings and were towed out to the starting line. Club topsails were made ready on the way out. The yachts arrived off the lightship at 10:10 a.m. Casting off their line and breaking out their headsails, they circled about the lightship for an hour or so in the light southwestern breeze, waiting for the committee-boat to arrive. The fog showed a disposition to clear about this time, but there was hardly wind enough to give the yachts steageway. For an hour after the committee-boat arrived, there was no more wind and no prospect, so at 12:10 o'clock, after a consultation between those in charge of the yachts, both agreed to call the race off, a gun was fired and the code signal letter "R" hoisted, announcing that fact to the assembled fleet.

A few minutes later, as agreed on a few days ago, another gun was fired, calling attention to the signal that the race would be run on Friday. The Manning and other revenue-cutters, the torpedo-boat Porter and all other vessels having the signal letters hoisted them so that all the fleet might know of the committee's decision before going back to the city.

The sails of both yachts were taken in as they towed back to their moorings in the Horseshoe, where they arrived at 1:30 o'clock. The same persons were on board the Columbia as have been there on previous days.

POINTS IN THEIR MIND. (ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.) LONDON, Oct. 12.—The Yachting World says today, with reference to the international race for the America's cup: "There are three points regarding which the mind of the public is now satisfied. The Columbia is no match for the Shamrock in light weather; the Americans are stretching somewhat in Sir Thomas Lipton's favor in agreeing to race daily, and the criticism of Capt. Barr, the Columbia's skipper, forms the only faring note in what, so far, has been a most harmonious contest, for it is evident that it is no fault of Barr that the Columbia will not travel."

The Yachtsman, discussing the time limit, says that while no modifications appear possible, it is to be regretted that the races have not been started at an earlier hour, when wind and weather conditions, far as experience up to the present time would indicate, seem to have been better calculated to insure a finish.

FRIDAY'S WINDS. NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The local Weather Bureau today sent out the following special weather bulletin: "WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Local forecast: Over the yachting course the winds this afternoon will be mostly light, southerly. The present outlook is not favorable for brisk winds Friday, although they will be more decidedly from the south than during today."

(Signed) "MOORE."

COLLISION OF STEAMERS. (ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.) NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The steamer William Fletcher, with the guests of Sir Thomas Lipton on board, collided in the fog with the ferryboat West Brooklyn, just off Governor's Island, soon after 8 o'clock this morning. Both boats sustained considerable injury. The Fletcher struck bow on, carrying away her nose, and making a big hole in the ferryboat's port side above the water line. The Fletcher returned to the barge office and landed her passengers. They were transferred to the tug E. S. Atwood, and in about half an hour left for Sandy Hook, to board the Erin. The ferryboat was taken to her slip at South Ferry by a tugboat.

POOR SHOWING. (ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.) NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Sandy Hook at 2 a.m. reports thick fog and no wind. The Weather Bureau predicts light winds for today. The prospect of a race today is not good.

OCLANA BELLE FELL.

Accident in the District Pace and Trot at Fresno.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.) FRESNO, Oct. 12.—In point of attendance today's races were the best of the week. The track was very sticky. Three favorites and one second choice were the winners.

An accident occurred in the second heat of the district pace and trot which, however, did not result in injury to man or horse. Worth Ober was leading with Oclana Belle, with Clark second, with Lottie Lilac. Col. R. was third. At the mudhole near the half, Oclana Belle fell to her knees. Clark, who was behind, called out "Look out!" Ober thought he said "Pull out," and he pulled to the right. Clark could not stop, and he ran over Ober's sulky, breaking the wheels. Lottie Lilac was, of course, thrown off her seat, and Col. R. forged ahead. He finished first, trying to shut out Lottie Lilac, but the mare got under the red flag. After a consultation, the judges gave the heat to Col. K. R. Lottie Lilac second, and allowed Oclana Belle to start in the next heat. The time was 2:28.

A special race of four and a half furlongs, for two-year-olds, was added to the programme. Cowboy won, Steel of Diamond second, Ahwahnee third; time 2:25.

The starters in the three-quarters of a mile handicap were Jim Brownell, Jack McCabe, Alvero, and Beaumont. Beaumont won, Brownell second, Alvero third. Jack McCabe balked and refused to start.

The starting summary:

The 2:30 district pace and trot:

Oclana Belle (Ober) 1 1 1

Col. K. R. (Regan) 3 1 2

Lottie Lilac (Clark) 2 2 3

Time 2:28, 2:28, 2:28

The 2:15 pac. purse $1000:

Don (Crawford) 1 2 1

Dictress (Kent) 1 2 3

Fannie Putnam (Stevenson) 3 3 2

Time 2:18½, 2:20.

*The first heat was declared off, as the judges thought Don had been pulled.

INGALLS HAS CANCER.

The Ex-Senator Goes to Mexico for More Favorable Climate.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) ST. JOSEPH (Mo.), Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Former United States Senator John J. Ingalls is suffering from cancer of the throat, and it is believed that he will not long survive the ravages of the disease, which has seized him. He has gone to Mexico in the hope that that climate and large resort with the treatment he is undergoing, will arrest the progress of the disease and afford him relief. Before he left for the South he submitted to careful examination by a local physician of repute, and the latter declared that the sufferer was beyond medical or surgical aid.

The news of his critical condition was a severe shock to his many friends in the Middle West, for it was generally thought he was in excellent health. Few of his intimate friends were informed of his condition. The disease manifested itself some time ago, but it was not until recently that its serious nature was known to Ingalls.

Ingalls was elected to the Senate from Kansas, and was a notable figure until swept out of his place by the Populist wave. He was a master of invective and sarcasm, and was ever ready in debate. Since his retirement from the Senate he has devoted most of his time to literary work, and his pen has produced some clever things.

FINANCIAL CRASHES.

Hundreds of Millions of Lire Lost in Italian Circles.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.) LONDON, Oct. 12.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The position of the Italian bourses, which has been serious for some time, says a special dispatch from Rome, resulted in a veritable crash today. Several banks and large firms are in a serious condition. The losses are estimated at some hundreds of millions of lire.

"It may be held that, aside from commercial and industrial considerations, merely the object lesson given by the administrative and physical rehabilitation of Havana that has been effected within a few months, constitutes an enormous moral force, the results of which are to a greater or less extent permanent and of incalculable value in Cuba and elsewhere.

"In Havana the rule of law is practically complete. The rural districts are as orderly as in the interior of New England. These facts must be credited in great part to the measures taken by the American administration, but it must be unjust not to credit the inhabitants themselves with a willingness to fall in with the purposes of the administration and to cooperate with them.

"As to commerce, the situation is less clear. The American occupation was followed by an abnormal volume of imports, due to the banking up of invoices, awaiting anticipated changes in charges, and a period of active movement ensued, the continuance of which will depend upon the extent to which the resources of the island can be developed. Money is plentiful, as is shown by the rate of interest at 6 per cent. or 7 per cent. instead of 10 to 15 per cent., as formerly. Financial movements are likely to be more or less hesitating until some explicit conclusion is announced as to the future.

WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA.

The rash and insolent ultimatum transmitted to the British government, on Tuesday, from the Transvaal government, made war inevitable. It left to the government of Great Britain no alternative save ignominious retreat from an inferior foe or an advance which would mean war. As between these alternatives, there could be no choice for Great Britain. Retreat was virtually impossible, for it would have made England the laughing-stock of the world, and would have placed her in the position of abandoning her subjects to injustice and oppression under the pressure of threats from the oppressors. Englishmen, like Americans, have very decided objections to retreating under fire. The Dutch ultimatum, therefore, closed the last avenue of diplomatic effort, and made war a certainty.

War has followed fast upon the heels of the ultimatum, as was expected. The Boers have already occupied several strategic positions, and the struggle will soon begin in deadly earnest. It is altogether probable that the British troops, for the present, will act almost wholly on the defensive. They are outnumbered by the Boers, and will not be likely to take the offensive until they have been reinforced by troops now on the way. It will take a month or six weeks for these troops to reach the firing line, and in the interim the Boers will doubtless gain some advantages of more or less importance. But in the end, as a matter of course, Great Britain will be victorious. These puny republics—the Transvaal and the Orange Free State, which have formally espoused the cause of the Boers—are no match for the tremendous military power of Great Britain. They will probably fight with courage and desperation, however. The Dutch are stubborn fighters, and in the present case, whether right or wrong, they are evidently imbued with the belief that they are fighting for the salvation of their country. But Englishmen are fighters also, "from away back," and they will certainly not be satisfied with anything less than a sweeping and decisive victory.

Provision has already been made for throwing a force of some 35,000 English troops into South Africa. The force which the combined republics can put into the field is estimated at not more than 20,000—and these figures are probably too high rather than too low. The English forces, moreover, will be better equipped than their enemies in the essential matters of artillery, small arms, ammunition and discipline. Thus they will be superior to their foes in every respect, and it is only a question of time when the latter will be vanquished.

Upon the Transvaal government must rest the onus of precipitating this conflict. The rashness and insolence of Tuesday's ultimatum was like a slap in the face of England. It was such an insult as no self-respecting nation could tolerate, and the exigencies of the situation were not such as to justify a measure so extreme. The war which these republics have on their hands has been brought upon them by their own rashness—more especially by the rashness of Kruger and his advisers. Having invited the war, they will have to take the consequences, however severe. The probable consequences will be that both republics will be added to the British possessions in South Africa.

The attitude of our government will, of course, be one of strict neutrality, as indicated in the statement issued yesterday by the State Department. We cannot offer mediation or intervention unless requested by one or both of the combatants to do so. Our government, while remaining neutral, will hold itself in readiness at all times to do anything within its power to aid in bringing about a restoration of peace. In the mean time, our Consuls in South Africa have been instructed to afford protection to English citizens and interests, as British Ministers and Consuls afforded protection to Americans and American interests in Spain, Cuba, Porto Rico, and the Philippines. We cannot easily forget the invaluable services which our English friends rendered us in our hour of need. The services which our diplomatic agents in South Africa will be able to render them, will be but an inadequate return for the many friendly acts which the British government and its agents performed for us during the American-Spanish war. Naturally, the sympathies of many Americans will go out to the Boers by reason of their being the weaker party in this conflict. It is human nature to sympathize with the "under dog" in the fight. But, on the other hand, American sympathies will be strongly drawn toward our friends and brothers of the English race, who have shown their friendship for us in so practical and unmistakable a manner, more especially within the past two years. As for the matter of justice and right, the weight of the argument appears to be strongly on the side of England in this controversy. It is an error to suppose that the Boers are fighting in the cause of liberty, tolerance, and free government. On the contrary, they are fighting for the maintenance of a powerful oligarchy, comprising, according to the most reliable of recent statements, only about one-fifth of the population of the Transvaal. Though the Boer government is nominally a republic, it would seem to be, in point of fact, a sort of oligarchical despotism, with laws which are as much out of place in the latter part of the nineteenth century as is the absolute despotism of the Czar of all the Russias.

If apparently reliable statements of the situation be not greatly at fault, the situation in South Africa has come to be intolerable for Englishmen and other residents not belonging to the Boer oligarchy, although they outnumber the Boers, as above noted, about four to one. Great Britain will eventually set up a stable and just government in these South African republics, as our government will do in the Philippines, under which all residents, of whatever race, color or condition, shall have equal rights, privileges, and immunities before the law.

It therefore appears, as though it were the English standard which represents justice, freedom and progress in South Africa, and the Boer standard which represents oppression, injustice and retrogression.

MAJ.-GEN. E. S. OTIS AND HIS CRITICS.
A recently-published letter, attributed to the British Consul at Labuan, Borneo, declares that Gen. E. S. Otis "is a rabid Roman Catholic." This statement has been variously commented upon by the press in the United States, and some of the self-constituted critics of Maj.-Gen. Otis have professed to find in it something disparaging to the Military Governor in the Philippines. That criticism of this character is absurd, unfair and foolish, is obvious to every candid mind. If the enemies of Maj.-Gen. Otis can find nothing worse against him than the charge that he is a Catholic, they would far better keep silence. For in these days of enlightenment and progress, a man's religious belief, or lack of religious belief, is very generally conceded to be entirely a matter of conscience.

Whether Maj.-Gen. Otis is a Catholic, a Presbyterian, a Methodist, a Unitarian, or neither of these, is a matter of no special concern, so far as his administration of affairs in the Philippines is concerned.

As a question of general public interest, however, the case is somewhat different, and it may be worth while to note that Maj.-Gen. Otis is not a Catholic, and never has been one, "rabid" or otherwise. The Army and Navy Journal, a publication of high standard and an authority in army and navy matters, has looked the matter up, and submits facts which may safely be regarded as unquestionable. The Army and Navy Journal is an authority for the statement that Gen. Otis, "however tolerant he may be of the faith of those he deals with in the Philippines, as becomes an officer of the army, is a Protestant. He was brought up," says the Journal, "in the Presbyterian faith, but, his wife being an Episcopalian, he has of late years attended her church. The present Mrs. Otis is a daughter of Col. Alex H. Bowman, who was superintendent of the Military Academy during the civil war." Coming from so high an authority, this statement must be accepted as the truth, though the question of Maj.-Gen. Otis's religion is a matter of little consequence to anybody but himself.

The Army and Navy Journal—which, by the way, is not particularly friendly to Gen. Otis—further takes occasion, in the article above mentioned, to defend Maj.-Gen. Otis against the criticisms and petty calumnies of some of his traducers. Concerning the singular charge made by and through the New York Evening Post, that Gen. Otis has been too lenient with the Filipinos, by permitting such a use of ports in the Philippines as to encourage the introduction of contraband of war for the benefit of the enemy, the Army and Navy Journal observes that "there may have been good reasons for this which do not appear, and it is certain that the cordon of the blockade is being drawn tighter around the island, now that the navy is provided with proper vessels for navigating the shoal waters along the coast."

Some "sensible remarks" of Maj.-Gen. Otis are also referred to, showing that the prolongation of the war has been due largely to the lack of an adequate military force, and to the encouragement which Aguinaldo has received from the so-called "anti-imperialist" contingent in this country. But this, it appears, is of some advantage, for "the Filipinos are becoming thoroughly disgusted with the kind of independence Aguinaldo would give them, and are realizing how mistaken are their crude conceptions of liberty. It is a process through which all emancipated peoples must go sooner or later, before they can settle down to a stable government, in which liberty is not mistaken for license." Even Anglo-Saxon communities have not fully learned this lesson, and the hybrid Spanish peoples have not learned it at all.

The Army and Navy Journal concludes its excellent article as follows: "It is the encouragement given to these impossible conceptions by hysterical proclamations of abstract principles, disappointed political leaders, those seeking a political issue at the expense of the administration, which has made much of the trouble for us at Labuan, as Gen. Otis shows. One can doubt for a moment that, with the American rule once established in the Philippines, those islands will enter upon a career of prosperity, liberty and health, as has been inaugurated already in Hawaii and in Western India, and which the Filipinos have never conceived of. And yet, rather than yield anything of their pride of opinion, or their political prejudices, they are respectively the Omaha Bee very pertinently says: "This is what the leaders of the Southern Confederacy desired, and Uncle Sam had to put the idea to death."

RACE PROBLEM.

[RAILROAD RECORD.]

DEMURRAGE ON CARS.

Railroads Contract for Large Quantities of Oil.

There is such a scarcity of cars all over the country that all the railroads are at their wits' end to find a supply. For the enormous amount of business to be done. The car famine is most acute on the Pacific Coast. The idea is that when a car loaded with goods comes to its destination the consignee will unload it with due dispatch. To promote this a demurrage penalty of 10 cents a day is imposed for not promptly unloading a car. This has been somewhat of a myth in railroading in Los Angeles. Rarely, if ever, has the penalty been exacted. But at the present time so acute is the car famine that the two big roads have determined to enforce the demurrage penalty. Circulars are being sent out to all the shippers, notifying them of the intention to enforce the penalty. As soon as a car comes in, the consignee will be notified of its arrival, and he will indicate where it is to be set he will be again notified of this. The consignee must unload it in twenty-four hours, or after that time pay 10 cents for each succeeding twenty-four hours that the car is held for his convenience. The rule goes into effect next Monday morning. Coal will be excepted.

The great rush of business pressing on the roads may be realized from the statement that the Santa Fé on Wednesday handled in this State a total of 1500 freight cars. Sixty per cent. of the cars were empty. For several days past a gang of men has been busy grading on these lots, and laying new tracks there. It is for the purpose of accommodating the Redford Lumber Company, which has made arrangements to use part of the ground. Two stub switches have been put in for this purpose.

The Rock Island excursion just in from the East, brought a total of 105 persons to the Coast. Of these forty-one came to Southern California. The consensus of opinion among all the railroad men is that tourist travel to the Coast this winter will be heavy. Facts like the above seem to justify their expectations.

The Southern Pacific is planning to use a good deal of oil on its locomotives. The company has made a contract for 1000 barrels per day for four years. Storage tanks are to be placed at various stations along the line, from which the engines may be supplied.

The Santa Fé, in spite of the fact that it is a large producer of oil, is said to have made a contract for 1000 barrels per month for a year. The price of this is rumored to be about $1.10 per barrel.

Yesterday there arrived here about a dozen men of the Fourth Cavalry, just home from Manila. They are all Southern California boys, and among them is a well-known old-time conductor on the Terminal.

W. G. Nevin, general manager of the Santa Fé, has gone to Chicago, to be absent about ten days. He is expected home tomorrow.

T. McCaffery, chief train dispatcher of the Southern Pacific, who has been in San Francisco about ten days, is expected home tomorrow.

T. D. Connelly, coast freight agent of the Texas and Pacific, left here yesterday for San Francisco. He is expected home tomorrow.

William Solomon, a Los Angeles boy, has been promoted from the position of stenographer to the general manager of the Southern Pacific. He is expected to take up his duties tomorrow.

MYSTERY DEEPENS.

New York Police Department Makes Additional Grosseme Find.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]
NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The police department reported today that a bundle supposed to contain human entrails had been found in the East River, at the foot of Dover street. The find was wrapped in a white canvas bag. The flesh was covered with blood, and it was found in a piece of medicated gauze, soaked with blood. What is supposed to be surgical cotton was also found in the bag. The bag bore the letters "M. A. T."

The seems little doubt that this new fragment is part of the body of the woman whose left thigh was found in West Seventeenth street last Sunday, unless the heat or some portion of the body bearing a scar or birthmark should be found the police despair of unraveling the mystery.

At the morgue it was said that the bundle fished out of the East River contained nothing to show any connection with the murder case.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12.—A battle between the Rockefeller and Carnegie interests on the Great Lakes, which has been under way for several days past, ended today apparently in favor of the former. Rockefeller has practically cornered the lake freight market, and the Carnegie Company must not pay a subsidy for the carrying charges on iron ore next season.

ALL ALONG THE LINE.

The vexed question of conveying water rights has taken on a new phase in Monrovia, the citizens claiming as free the water now supplied and charged for by the city. As it is purely a question of law, and can be decided only through a test case, it simply forms another incident in the interesting problem, and does not afford any tenable ground on which, or by which, to affect, waive or challenge the really interesting fact that the water to fight over. The matter of adjudicating the question of ownership will adjust itself through the customary channels and a satisfactory solvent will present itself in due time.

All over the citrus belt the cheering sign of thousands on thousands of new props for the heavily-laden orange trees is manifest, and this fact serves to give added interest to the resolutions passed by the San Diego Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, wherein the Citrus Tariff Committee of Southern California is urged to use all means possible to defeat the pending commercial treaty with Jamaica. This treaty passed, or ratified, would be far worse to citrus interests than another dry year could be. The latter would find a fair market for such fruit as was raised, while the former would force this Coast to meet imported fruit in eastern markets with the paralyzing handicaps of overland freights and a much smaller cost of production against it. This treaty is a question of supreme importance and merits immediate attention from all fruit men.

Merit in the discharge of duty and obedience to orders by policemen are so seldom noticed by superiors that the officers often lose heart, so they say. Santa Barbara comes up smiling with a "dy cop" who, while he should be advanced in standing for obedience to orders, is really the victim of an arrest for cruelty to animals. He was sent to the park to keep dogs out of its bounds, and finding a dog in there he incontinently booted the canine out. When remonstrated with, he said: "I was sent there to keep dogs out, and I did just what I was sent to do." There is a vast and hilarious welcome void in Los Angeles for several such men, who will "do just what I was sent to do." If one will count over the dead-letter ordinances ornamenting the statute books, the sum of the needs of which are a burden of torment to good men and women, because obedient good officers do not do "just what they are sent to do," it will not be difficult to enlist converts to this belief.

The collision of the steamer Coos Bay with the schooner Jennie Stella of Redondo—the latter being at anchor while the steamer was under way, if correctly reported in our Redondo correspondence—is a prime exhibition of criminal carelessness. Making a landing, the master should be on deck, and even if the schooner's anchor line was dim or out altogether, it is no excuse for colliding with her on a clear night. Easily under control, and also under a slow bell, with no wind or current of consequence, and with a clearly defined light on the pier, any competent master could have no excuse for the collision. This true the slavish work of that employ, especially on the smaller boats—especially the mates—without sufficient sleep, and right here may be the true cause of the trouble; but no aggregation of all possible causes resulting in a collision can excuse a steamship for running away from a sailing craft. Something is radically wrong here.

SUMPHOLES FULL.

DELUGE OF OIL THREATENING THE STREETS OF THE CITY.

Law Requiring Filling of Holes Notoriously Disregarded—Another Half-Inch of Rain Will Create a Nuisance in Residence Districts.

That the residence sections in the southwestern part of the city and the immediate vicinity of Westlake Park were now flooded with oil from the sumpholes in the oil fields Wednesday, is due only to the fact that the rain ceased when it did. Had there been half an inch of rain instead of only .30 of an inch, it is certain that the city authorities, and especially the Oil Inspector, would not be hearing complaints from property-owners throughout that part of the city. That the law with reference to the proper filling and embanking of sumpholes has been totally disregarded has been a notorious fact for weeks, and it has frequently been stated that at the first heavy rain a deluge of crude oil would be poured upon the residence sections in the parts of the city to which the water from the oil fields naturally drains. Fortunately for those sections the rainfall was not sufficient to overflow the sumpholes, but many of them were filled to the very brim and are now ready to pour out oil as soon as a little more water runs into them.

Should there be a half inch of rain within the next few days, the district around the eastern side of Westlake Park will receive a flood of oil similar to that which flowed down Figueroa street some months ago, when certain workmen in the oil fields opened an old tank and allowed its contents to flow into a storm drain. In the gully which runs parallel to, and a short distance east of Union avenue, below First street, there is a series of sumpholes which contain the refuse oil from a dozen or more wells in that vicinity. This oil was collected in the holes by the placing of several dams across the gully, one above the other. The volume of oil was so great that it overflowed the first dam, and when a second was constructed it was also overflowed, so a third had to be built. This made three pools of oil containing several hundred barrels, their relative positions being similar to that of the water in the locks of a canal. Below the dams the gully extends to a culvert which opens on the north side of Sixth street, the other end of which is in the gutter at Orange and Bonnie Brae streets. Should the dams break or should there be sufficient rainfall to cause the oil to flow over them, all of the oil would be swept to the street at the corner mentioned, which is within two blocks of Westlake Park.

The storm drain which follows the course of the oil arroyo along South Figueroa street has its source at the intersection of First and Second streets and Lake Shore avenue. Within fifty feet of the opening of this storm drain, which is a thirty-inch cement pipe, there is a pool of oil covering the bed of what was once a lake in an old park there. Half an inch of rain would cause most of this oil to flow into the drain and it would thus be carried to Eighteenth and Figueroa streets, whence it would flow along the gutter on the east side of Figueroa street to the south side limits. City Water Overseer Dalton said yesterday that there is little likelihood of oil reaching the canals, for the reason that he had closed all connections with the storm drains, because he feared just such a flood of oil would occur several months ago. In the northern end of the oil district, south of Elysian Park, there is no danger of damage from any overflow of the sumpholes for the reason that the drainage is not in a direction which would make damage possible.

POLICE COURT NOTES.

Not Enough Business to Keep One Court Going.

People are getting so good in Los Angeles that the two departments of the Police Court have not enough work between them to keep one set of court officials busy. Justice Austin, who is holding the regular afternoon sessions of the Police Court this week, had only four plain drunks to dispose of yesterday. He fined them $2 each. Two of the victims had money and paid their fines, while the other two went to jail for two days. It took the court just about thirty minutes to attend to this business.

Justice Morgan tried two petty misdemeanor cases yesterday afternoon, finding a verdict of not guilty in each case in short order.

John McLaurin was tried for fast driving on complaint of Mrs. Elizabeth T. Adams, who had been in collision with McLaurin's vehicle while riding a bicycle. The complaint specified that McLaurin turned a corner at Third and Broadway, where the accident was alleged to have occurred, at a rate of speed exceeding four miles an hour. But when the evidence was taken it developed that the accident took place at Fourth street and Broadway, and eyewitnesses declared McLaurin was driving very slowly. Because of the technical defect in the complaint and the weakness of the evidence for the prosecution, the trial was nipped in the bud, and the defendant discharged.

Mrs. Mary Lockaby was tried for disturbing the peace, on complaint of her neighbor, Mrs. Belle Brashears, colored, of No. 2160 East Tenth street. The colored woman's grievance was that Mrs. Lockaby had offended her by charging her with the theft of a letter containing $5 sent to Mrs. Lockaby by her husband. The postman had delivered the letter to Mrs. Lockaby's little girl, who placed it under a flower pot on the front porch, whence it was alleged to have mysteriously disappeared. The evidence tended to show that the defendant had advertised the fact that she suspected that Mrs. Brashears had stolen the letter, but the charge that she had disturbed the peace by loud and tumultuous language was not proven. The court brought the trial to an abrupt close by discharging the defendant before all the witnesses who had been subpoenaed were heard. The court also mildly chided the District Attorney for issuing a complaint on such flimsy grounds.

Mrs. Jackson is alleged to have left his bed and board several days ago, owing to a domestic spat, vowing that she would never live with him again. She took with her the boy, who is a very handsome little chap. The mother, according to photographs in the possession of the police, is a very attractive-looking person. Besides the description of the woman and child the police are guided also, in their search by the description of a man in whose company it is alleged the missing wife and child may be found. The relations of the man to the woman have not been defined.

GOLF PLAYERS PREPARING FOR A LIVELY WINTER.

Return of Champion Charles Orr from Scotland-Lukens & Kerckhoff to Plant Twenty Acres of Mountain Side to Trees-Sherlock Holmes Expelled from Club.

PASADENA, Oct. 12.—[Regular Correspondence.] The sporting interest is picking up here. It is going to be the liveliest winter yet for golf, tennis and football. The Country Club will soon issue a season programme for a series of tournaments, band days, dances and sports of various kinds. They intend to keep things moving all winter. Then, a series of road races for visitors with fine horseflesh is proposed.

The golf enthusiasts are pleased to hear that Charles E. Orr, the champion of Southern California, is coming back here and will take a hand in the game this season. After winning his laurels, Mr. Orr went over to his former home in Scotland last spring. It was expected that he would remain there; but he has started for Pasadena, and is due here October 20. The newly-organized Southern California Golf Association is making up a schedule for a series of tournaments, part of which will be played on the Country Club. The members are quite sure that their team will be a winner this year, none but the best are sure of enlisting Champion Orr.

The first game of football of the season will be played between the High School and Throver teams on Saturday at the Terminal grounds.

TREE PLANTING.

T. P. Lukens of this city, who has been carrying on a tree nursery of his own in Bear Valley the past summer, has returned to his home, fully prepared to carry out his plan for experimental tree planting on the devastated sides of the mountains near Pasadena. Much interest has been manifested in the work. They propose to plant about twenty acres of these forests, and to be done in the line of reforestation with a little trouble and expense. Mr. Lukens thinks the Pinus tuberculata is the tree of all others for this purpose, as it is a rapid grower and practically fireproof. Mr. Lukens says that in his Bear Valley nursery he has trees three to four feet high, and that he has planted three feet apart over the mountains, in five years they would be covered with trees again," says Mr. Lukens. He hopes the forest will be a permanent one, and that it will be a source of profit to the city. He is pleased with his observations of what the rangers and government officials are now doing in the protection of the mountain forests.

MARE'S NEST SHOWN UP.

M. D. Painter today began getting signatures of property-owners on North Raymond and North Oak avenues in Pasadena to effect a connection with a sewer system of this city and pay for it. This arrangement will bring in the Hotel Fortuna. The sanitary district will have nothing to do with it, as it is a purely private enterprise on the part of North Pasadena citizens who wish a sewer connection and are willing to pay for it. The outlet North Pasadena people can have for their sewage is through the Pasadena system, and the city fathers have granted a permit to these gentlemen, they to pay a fair compensation. This is the whole "inwardness" of the recent campaign mare's nest representing that the sanitary district movement was a scheme to build a sewer for the city.

A CHURCH-MAULING.

Though church-mauling is not much in vogue in these degenerate days, greatly to the regret of the old school theologians, or some of them at least, it is still practiced by the faithful of the African Methodist Church of Pasadena. A trial of this sort last evening led to a police court hearing today. Sylvester Holmes was arraigned before the African Methodist church on a charge of grave charge of dancing. He pleaded guilty, solemnly professed repentance and asked for forgiveness, and was told to "go and sin no more." The stern father awaited his sister, Miss Martha Holmes, against whom a similar complaint had been lodged. She was not so docile as her brother, and at first would not own up. Proofs were presented, however, and then the erring sister confessed the best of her. "Yes, I did dance, and I did dance to do so some moan—so you deacons can see you please," she blurted out. She thereupon was ceremoniously dismissed from the church. At the close of the meeting Sylvester Holmes made an attack on Brother William E. Ford, accusing him of having seduced his sister, and striking Brother Ford on the right cheek. Ford did not turn the right cheek, but had him arrested and taken to the police court. Holmes pleaded guilty, and was fined $5 and paid.

THORNTON'S BOND.

There promises to be a law suit over the bonds given to the postmaster by Franklin W. Thornton, the convicted embezzler of postage stamps. Thornton gave a bond for $2000 to George F. Kernaghan, when he was postmaster, with A. A. Caswell, J. M. Radebaugh as sureties. The bond was made to Kernaghan or his successor in office, which proved to be Webster Watkins eight months later. Last year the postoffice department issued an order requiring that all clerks handling money or stamps should give a bond to the Security Company bond, and on January 1, Thornton furnished a bond of his description, in addition to the former. Now, the sureties here are Caswell, Kernaghan, Radebaugh and Thornton. The postmaster's attorney holds that this bond is not in force.

LONG BEACH.

Interest Displayed in the Proposed Opening of Avalon.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 12.—[Regular Correspondence.] The proposition of opening Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, to the public is still of more than ordinary interest in this city. Avalon has been one of the objective points for many of the excursionists from here in past seasons. The pleasure-boat business reaching out from here has been large, and has grown rapidly from year to year. The bulk of the excursion traffic has been that running to San Pedro and Terminal Island on short fishing trips. Occasionally one of the power craft would venture into Avalon Bay, but the enforcement of the rule requiring passengers on such boats to pay $25 each for the privilege of landing tended to discourage trips to that resort. If passengers from all boats be allowed to land at Avalon, it is likely to bring a great deal of boating business from here to Santa Catalina Island. By starting early in the day, the power boats of the most of those which have run from here in past summer seasons may take passengers to Avalon, give them several hours at that resort and return so as to arrive at Long Beach early in the evening.

LONG BEACH BREVITIES.

The rain in this city Wednesday, according to the Alamos Land Company's gauge over the bank building, amounted to .95 of an inch.

The Long Beach Development Company is preparing to sink a ten-inch well north of town, near where a heavy-pressure flow was developed by boring two-inch prospect wells.

AZUSA.

Successful Water Development—San Gabriel River's Flow.

AZUSA, Oct. 12.—[Regular Correspondence.] The total precipitation of rain Wednesday afternoon and evening was .55 of an inch, as shown by the gauge at the Macmillan ranch. The flow of the San Gabriel River is today over 500 inches, about three times what it was before the rain, and there are other indications that the rain in the mountains was much heavier than in the valley.

Recent water developments hereabouts have been as successful as those inaugurated earlier in the season. The new Lewis and Clark Land Company has struck a good flow in their well at a depth of 126 feet, and will at once put it to use in planting.

The Artesian Belt Water Company, the pioneers in the San Dimas district, have completed their second well, which shows a steady flow of water, and they are now pumping a steady stream of 115 inches. New wells have also been sunk by A. B. Smith and C. H. Ruddle, both of whom have been successful in finding water in good volume.

Almon Hall and Bert Manning, Azusa boys, who have been on the firing line in the Philippines in the Fourth United States Cavalry, are expected to arrive home on Friday.

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 12.—[Regular Correspondence.] A brilliant wedding took place at 8:30 o'clock this evening at the Dibblee mansion on Castle Rock. The bride is the eldest daughter of the late Thomas B. Dibblee, who was one of Santa Barbara's wealthiest citizens. William T. Summers, of Juneau, Alaska, is the groom. The decorations were very elaborate. The rooms are all of large dimensions, frescoed in various shades, and the floral decorations were made to correspond with the colors of each room. The ceremony was performed in the drawing-room, which was a mass of asparagus ferns and white flowers. The bride was accompanied by her sister, Miss Syne Dibblee, and by two small sisters as flower girls. Wilson Dibblee was the bridesman. The party stood in a bay window under two great floral hearths. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Nunan of this city. The guests numbered over one hundred. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served in a dining-room decorated with hundreds of yellow chrysanthemums. Mr. and Mrs. Summers will leave for Alaska in a few days.

The total rainfall here during the past two days measured .28 of an inch. The farmers throughout the county were kept busy with a heavy storm feared. Only slight damage was done to crops. The walnut crop was even benefited, as those that have not yet fallen will now break open and drop from the trees.

Miss Flora Cook, a teacher in the Chicago Normal School, arrived here today. She is touring the South, and will remain here for three or four days.

Under the new charter of this city an election for municipal officers will be held December 1. F. M. Whitney, formerly Mayor of this city, was until this afternoon a very prominent candidate for that office. He now announces his withdrawal, as his physician says he cannot stand the nervous strain of a campaign.

SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY.

Probable Compromise of the Matter of Street Lighting.

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 12.—[Regular Correspondence.] A. M. Ham and James Fleming, representing the city, had a conference yesterday afternoon with W. S. Hooper, president of the Electric Light Company, and the prospects are that the street lights will soon be shining again. The terms of the compromise will probably be a new contract for eighteen months, which will carry the city through, until a new Board of Trustees is elected, in the spring of 1901. The matter of the payment of back bills, it is alleged to be due the company, will not be considered for a time.

SAN BERNARDINO BREVITIES.

Frank Noel was placed on trial today before Judge Campbell and a jury in Department Two of the Superior Court, on the charge of selling liquor to Indians.

Some of the artesian wells in the city that have been dry for several months, are commencing to flow again. The precipitation yesterday amounted to one-fourth of an inch.

The case of the Little Creek Water Company vs. J. C. Christy, continues to occupy the attention of Judge W. S. Day and a jury in Department One of the Superior Court. Christy is charged with polluting the water of Little Creek with his operations at hydraulic mining.

At a special meeting of the Cycling Club held Tuesday night, a resolution was passed "that all manner of vehicles regularly used upon the public highways be provided with a light." After the Board of City Trustees cut off the street lights, an ordinance was ordered framed, requiring bicycles to carry lamps at night. The wheelmen at first protested, but now express their willingness to carry lights on their bicycles, provided other vehicles are similarly decorated.

REDLANDS.

Heavy Fall of Snow on San Bernardino Mountains.

REDLANDS, Oct. 12.—[Regular Correspondence.] While it rained here yesterday afternoon and last night there was a heavy fall of snow upon the mountains, none of which appeared to be dissipated by the sun today. That there should be a blanket of snow upon the peaks of the San Bernardino range, and deposited by the first storm, is considered remarkable. The report from Bear Valley this morning was that there had been a fall of eight inches up to that time. The snow was much heavier. The flow of water in the Santa Ana River and Mill Creek increased quite perceptibly.

RIVERA.

RIVERA, Oct. 12.—[Special Correspondence.] A reception to returned soldiers was given in the Town Hall on Monday evening. The hall was decorated elaborately for the occasion. L. M. Burk delivered an address of welcome, which was responded to by Thomas Bennett on behalf of his comrades. Hotchkiss, Henry Judson and Burr Ellis.

FRENCH CONSPIRACY.

Case Against M. Grosjean Dismissed by the High Court.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] PARIS, Oct. 12.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The High Court has dismissed the case against M. Grosjean, Judge of the Assize Court at Yverdon, against whom M. Melot, the Advocate-General, had preferred charges in connection with the trial of M. Paul de Roulede, chief of the League of Patriots, now implicated in the proceedings before the Senate, growing out of the alleged conspiracy to overthrow the form of government of France.

M. Grosjean has sent a challenge to M. Melot.

DOING A GREAT WORK.

Human Society Relieving Suffering Children and Animals.

The Los Angeles Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has done and is doing a great work throughout the city and county, according to reports submitted at the monthly meeting of the board of directors, which was held in the Y.M.C.A. parlors. The secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Millard, submitted her annual report, which shows what has been accomplished in aid of suffering children and of abused and neglected animals.

Mrs. Millard's report showed that during the year there were brought to the society's attention 148 cases of cruelty to children, of which 132 had been relieved, while many more had been investigated. Complaints of cruelty to animals numbered 80, and 140 animals were relieved; 13 teamsters were reprimanded, 10 camps visited, 4 animals killed, 128 cases investigated, and three persons convicted and punished.

During the past month the report showed a number of cases of cruelty were adjusted without recourse to the Police Court; eighteen cases of cruelty to children were investigated and relieved; two of the children had already been successfully introduced into twelve schools in the University district, and depended upon the S.P.C.A. to further their good work. The secretary was appointed to confer with the W.C.T.U. representatives, with a view to organizing Bands of Mercy and systematically introducing them into the public schools.

The society is about to issue a pamphlet containing sections of the law relating to cruelty to children and animals. These will be distributed free.

WRESTLING WITH RULES

EFFORT TO SYSTEMATIZE SCHOOL BOARD'S BUYING PLANS.

Report Submitted but Considered as Involving Too Much Red Tape. Committee on Rules to Try Its Hand at It.

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held last night for the purpose of considering the proposed changes in the rules of the school department, the purpose of which is to secure a more satisfactory system of authorizing purchases. The necessity for some such changes in the rules and for a new and better system than that now in vogue was brought rather forcibly to the attention of the members of the board, and some weeks ago. At a regular meeting a bill was presented for a number of new typewriters, the bill amounting to more than $700. When it was read none of the members seemed to know anything about the matter, and although the requisition had been regularly signed and had even been approved by some of the members of the board in their capacity of committee-men. An inquiry was at once made and it developed that the new machines had actually been delivered at the school department storeroom. They were intended for the High School, and were eventually taken there. The whole proceeding was regular enough, but the fact that it would have been possible for a bill for that amount to have passed unnoticed without the knowledge of the members or their knowing anything about the necessity for the purchases caused the members to determine to adopt a system of purchasing by which such a condition would be rendered impossible. To that end a special committee was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Udell and Chambers, and it was to consider the report of that committee that the meeting of the board was held last night.

Before the matter of new rules was considered requisitions for an unusually large order of general supplies, both for the storeroom and kindergarten department, were approved. On recommendation of the Teachers' Committee a leave of absence of two weeks was granted Miss Annie Wright.

In the matter of the request of the Garvanza schools for a supply of pens, penholders and dictionaries, the Committee on Educational Supplies and Printing reported, recommending that the request be granted. Mr. Udell stated that it would be impossible to secure the needed supply of pens and penholders from the stores in this city, as the dealers were unable to get them from the East, there being almost a total absence of a supply of such articles. Assistant Superintendent Ennis was directed to supply the Garvanza schools with the articles needed from the other schools, if possible, until purchases can be made.

With reference to the new cooking classes which are about to be opened, it was stated to the board that 240 pupils are available for the courses, and that that number would be divided into ten classes. All the stoves and other appliances necessary for the classes are in position.

The board then went into committee of the whole for the consideration of the proposed amendments to the rules. The special committee had no report to make as a committee, but Mr. Udell prepared a report, which was read, that member not being able to attend the meeting owing to the illness of one of his children. His report was quite voluminous, and did not meet with the approval of the other members, who expressed the opinion that the plan which he suggested was entirely too much red tape in the ordering of supplies. In brief, his plan was to have the committee authorize the necessary purchases, and then have another committee actually make the purchases, the requisitions being first approved by the employee desiring the supplies.

The Superintendent of Schools, President Davis suggested another plan, consisting simply of the proper approval of the requisitions by the person originating them, then the approval by the superintendent, and lastly, their approval by a committee appointed for that purpose. Judge Hendricks suggested the appointment of an officer whose duty it would be to look after the purchases, and who he held responsible for them. Mr. Davis's plan was preferred, and after a discussion which continued for nearly two hours, it was finally decided to refer the entire matter to the Committee on Rules to report at the next meeting. This report will be made at a special meeting to be held next Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock.
